

Disclosure Statement

As the owner of this site I have the full intention to be compliant with the Federal Trade Commission rules about the use of testimonials and endorsements in advertising and marketing. Accordingly, I want you as a visitor to understand that in some instances I get paid a commission to endorse products or services on my site. If you have a question about whether or not I'm materially connected with anything I promote or endorse, please contact me at:

admin@i-vault.biz

I have a material connection with the following organizations:

Amazon.com: I get paid a commission for each item you purchase in a session on Amazon.com when you click through links on my site. This is a part of the normal Amazon.com affiliate program.

Google: I get paid a commission when you click through any of the advertising elements marked "Google" on my site as part of the Google AdSense Program.

Clickbank: I get paid a commission for each item you purchase in a session on Clickbank.com when you click through links on my site. This is a part of the normal Clickbank affiliate program.

There may be other organizations I have a material connection with also. Unless otherwise stated, I get paid commissions or fees for any product or service you buy that you reached by clicking a link on my website.

Use of Testimonials or Endorsements

Note that for any endorsements or testimonials on this site, the authors of such endorsements and testimonials may have received compensation, including but not limited to free access to the product and or monetary payments.
